

THREE STUDENTS WON TAIWAN-JAPAN SCHOLARSHIPS

The Office of International Exchanges and International Education just revealed the winner list of the 2010 first scholarships for short-term exchange students by the Interchange Association, Japan (IAJ). TKU Japanese junior Wei-chi Jin, Ying-hui Ye and Japanese master freshman Shu-ting Tsai won the scholarships.

All the 3 winners are qualified as exchange students and are going to study in Japan the next semester. Wei-chi Jin who is going to Komazawa University said that she had chosen TKU because TKU' s Junior Study Abroad Program. Studying abroad can broaden new horizons. Besides, she was deeply influenced by the TKU professors most of whom studied in Japan. She wished to become a teacher of Japanese in the future, making contributions to Taiwan' s education. Shu-ting Tsai who is going to Aoyama Gakuin University expressed that there would be multi-choices to study in Japan. As she would like to become a translator, it would be more beneficial for her to study in the native language environment than to study from books.
