

A Visiting Professor at Tamkang

For over a semester now, TKU' s Graduate Institute of Asian Studies has benefited from the experience and professionalism of visiting professor, Dr. Mitsuyoshi Ishida. Dr. Ishida is a senior scholar at Japan' s Waseda University; he specializes in the triple-fold field of business, government, and academic studies. He explained that the chance to serve as a visiting professor arose in part due to the long-time friendly relationship between Waseda and Tamkang University, and due to Tamkang' s recent establishment of the Center for Japan Studies.

He expressed his hope that he “can apply the Waseda model of business-academic cooperation to Tamkang University” .

His teaching method involves open-classroom discussions in which students exchange and discuss their respective opinions.

When asked of his time at Tamkang, Dr. Ishida responded “I really like the environment here. I hope I can continue on indefinitely!”
